Branch Out for Change

"Branches reach for the sky, our roots run deep."

Bleary eyed teens stumbled through-out the halls at 7:23 am as, Principal Lobsiger's signal for the two minute warning, the school song, reverberated off the walls. In addition to the 35 minute earlier start, teens experienced an SRT move to after fifth hour, the addition of the West Annex as part of the high school campus, and new lunch times and changes.

American Red Cross saw a growth in participants who donated blood. With a goal of 38 donors, they received 32 first time and seven previous donors, a total of 39 pints of blood. "I feel like I gave back to the community, but on a more personal level. I am now looking into donating plasma," said senior Rachel Scott.

When the Marines visited Mr. Jeff Moolenaar's Law Enforcement classes on October 4 and 11, they moved the class to the front of the school. Students saw different routines and various styles of work-outs.

Change was made successfully as Mr. Paul Norwine requested the C-Span bus for three years, and finally on October 8, 12 students entered the bus for a voice interview with the President of the American Postal Workers Union, Cliff Guffey. "I believe it was a once in a lifetime unique opportunity, and I am glad I was able to take part in it," said senior Jessie Klemp.

Dominant: Preparing the freshmen for high school is what Kougar Kick Off did on August 12. Freshmen Koy Schmidt, Beau Sarosy, and Adam Sayers have lunch for the first time in the high school cafeteria. "The most enjoyable thing about the Freshman Kickoff was being able to figure out where all my classes were before the first day of school. Biggest change about high school is seeing all the different cliques," said freshman Beau Sarosy. Photo by T. Kingma

Working on art projects are sophomores Jordan Fagenbaum and Joli Jungels. "I think that as the years change, art classes get more difficult and require more effort. I love drawing because it's really fun and enjoyable. Shading and showing value is difficult because it's hard to make my drawing exactly the way it is supposed to be," said Jungels. Photo by B. Likens

"I decided to donate blood because I figured it would go to good use. I would consider doing it again because I would never know, I could be saving someone's life," said senior Ronald Gatlin. American Red Cross phlebotomist prepared and sanitized Gatlin's arm. Blood was drawn from the median cubital vein. American Red Cross collected a pint of blood from 39 individuals. Photo by B. Likens

On October 21, students participated in the annual practice evacuation drill. Students first went out for a fire drill, then continued to the bleachers, where they sat for approximately 50 minutes. "Evacuation Drills help for future reference incidents. The biggest change with coming to a new school is adjusting to all of the people and the placements of drills," said sophomore Madison Gutwein. challenge. Everything that we did, that they showed us, had a purpose, and I have the most respect for them," said Swartz. Photo by B. Likens

On the morning of the Kougars Kick-Off, Mentors organize the freshmen's name tags. "I became a mentor because I remembered how much my mentor helped me. I wanted to do the same thing for the upcoming freshmen," said junior Cella Wireman. Photo by T. Kingma

Branching out to Be

Branching out to be knowledgeable, involved, and determined. "Coming up with a good theme was really hard. We had to think about the school, and how we could best describe the whole population. It also had to be something easily understandable," explained senior co-editor Kimberly Peterson. When asked, teachers nominated numerous students as those who went above the norm both academically and in service to their school and community.

High school is about branching out and breaking out of common molds. It's about becoming a new person, an individual. It's about determining a sense of self. Whether it's branching out to make new friends, join new clubs, or determine a career path, every student branched out from the same school, and flourished from the same tree.

Senior Jacques Jean participated in the Work Experience Program. Through this, he

My dreams aren't for fame or fortune or wealth. My dreams are to make music and be heard, and maybe if I'm lucky, my music will have a positive impact on someone else's life," explained Demske.

Who says Girls can't play Football?

By Maranda Brown

On September 19 the smell of hair spray and barbecue smoke filled the air, and everyone knew the Powder Puff game was near.

Freshmen took the victory over the sophomores 12 to 6. Starting off with their trick play, freshmen completed the most unique touchdown of the night. "We learned the play at the last minute, and I was so scared it was not going to work, and I would look dumb. We fooled everyone, and it felt great scoring the first touchdown for the freshman team!" said Kendall Schultz.

Leanna Mulloy scored the single touchdown for the sophomores

Surrounded by fog, juniors and seniors fought the twelfth man on the field. Winning 22 to 12, juniors dominated the seniors. Senior Jessie Klemp ran for the first touchdown in the game. "Scoring the first touchdown and seeing our teammates and our fans going crazy was such an exhilarating feeling," said Klemp.

Right after the seniors scored six points, junior Alyssa Matson ran in for the Juniors. "Running the ball for the first touchdown felt amazing! I never knew how long 56 yards were until I was out of breath at the end," exclaimed Matson.

Additional junior points were added by Felicia Jones who scored on an interception, and Alysia Beenes who ran in for six. Two point conversions by Lauren Rhoades and Alyssa Matson completed the 22 points.

Senior Mercedes Dyer suffered the lone injury of a hard hit in the final minutes of the game. "What happened was scary. Knowing that I had the whole school's support was a really great feeling," said Dyer.

While juniors had possession, seniors waited on the defense line for the juniors to hike the ball. "Most important role as the center was knowing that I had control of all of the plays.

On the field, the fog wasn't as bad as what people thought. It was actually pretty clear," explained junior Kirstie Jones. Photo by T. Sparks

Homecoming week was full of dress-up days, penny wars, decorating doors, and trying to win the spirit stick. Going along with their "Lights, Camera, Homecoming" theme, dress-up days included Superfan/Jersey day, Fantasy day, Villain day, Superhero day, and Red Carpet day. "My favorite dress up day was Fantasy day because I got to dress like a princess and not get any weird looks," said sophomore Janna Witvoet.

During the week, every lunch had Penny Wars. The goal was to collect more pennies than any other class. Winning the penny wars were seniors with $236.78 of the $914 total.

Starting up an old school tradition, Student Council hosted a Thursday night bonfire, complete with performances from the band, dance team, and cheerleaders. Student Council also sold hot dogs, hot chocolate, and glow sticks and used the money to help pay for fireworks. "I think that the bonfire was a great way to meet more people in our school," said freshman Bailey Richardson.

Wrapping up the week was the annual pep session. First was the announcement of sport teams and then lip sync. Winning team was the seniors, performing to "Party Rock Anthem."

Concluding spirit week, seniors were announced the winners of dress-up days, door decorating and the spirit stick.

Dominant: After doing their lip sync for the last time, seniors Jennifer Anderson, Haley Ruesken, Jessie Klemp, Angela DeFries, Sydney Robinson, Courtney Hoffman, and Zachary DeFries cheer for their class. They danced to

Double Overtime Leads to Victorious Homecoming

Homecoming Court tried to stay warm until halftime, the band snapped to attention, and the crowd cheered as the team ran to the field. This was the game that everyone had been waiting for... "Lights, Camera, Homecoming".

Tailgaters started the excitement as teachers and parents hosted food and fun for all. Posters, horns, painted faces, and confetti filled the stands as spirited students packed the stadium on September 23.

As halftime neared, Corvettes filled with court representatives lined the north entrance. One by one the court lined up on the track in front of the bleachers to watch senior Kelsey Jefferson be crowned Homecoming Queen by previous Queen Carli Oney.

As the team returned to the field for warm ups, fireworks filled the night sky. "It was great to see the show come together. Under the direction of Stuco adviser Mr. Michael Lovely, we approached local businesses to raise funds for the display," said Mackenzie Misner.

Tyler Birky ran the ball through the rain into the end zone in double overtime, resulting in a Homecoming victory.

Fans sprinted to the field in excitement. "When I ran onto the field, I felt such an adrenaline rush. It was amazing that our school came together to celebrate such a major victory," explained sophomore cheerleader Tatiana Adams.

Dominant: Making some noise, senior Amanda Ferrell shows her school spirit. Alec Gunter, senior, encouraged Ferrell to play the trumpet. "The trumpet was brought along to the game as a noisemaker to cheer on the team. Even though none of us knew how to play it, we still had a lot of fun," said Ferrell. Some had a hard time because they had to make a quiet buzzing sound with their lips. Photo by A. Cobb

- In his third year, Principal Mr. Keeman Lobsiger continued to push his “We Are One!” motto, which was proved effective when the school was named a Four Star School on December 22. The school had already received a $20,000 check in recognition of their improved graduation rate from the Indiana Graduation Rate Performance Incentive Award in June of 2010.
- With the new middle school open, high school classes took over parts of the ‘West Annex’. Foreign languages, home economics, and the Academy were included in the move.
- Five foreign exchange students were welcomed into the school. “Being an exchange student had a bigger impact on my life than I thought it would. I became more mature, and I appreciate both American and Polish cultures more,” said senior Michal Baldowski.
- Various speakers visited throughout the year. One was from the Women’s Center in DeMotte to talk with the freshmen and juniors about sexual education. Another was, Jim Wallace, a candidate for Indiana governor, who spoke with Mr. Paul Norwine’s classes. “I liked that he agreed with us about a lot of issues that we thought were important,” explained senior Natasha Stuppy.
- In the spring, students discussed career interests for two hours with area specialists during Career Day on April 10.

Mr. Paul Epley promised to dye his hair red if his students raised $1,000 for the Magnificent Mile Walk. His class took a day off school to walk around the town of DeMotte. They received pledges for the distance they covered. The total amount brought in was $1,591. “I wanted to have an incentive that would encourage the students to collect a lot of money,” commented Epley. Photo by M. Dyer

Seniors

They spent seven hours a day, five days a week, 180 days per year together. They endured the disappointment of losing Powder Puff to the accomplishment of winning the spirit stick together. They were a part of each others lives for four years. They became different branches flourishing on the same tree. They were the class of 2012.

On the first day of school, seniors were reminded of what it was like to be a freshman again.

Homecoming night was one of the biggest highlights of Kelsey Jefferson's senior year. Jefferson reigned over Homecoming's victorious night against North Judson.

Class officers decided they wanted the graduation gowns to be unique. Gowns premiered all red and featured two white stripes down the front. "We chose to have the senior class wear the same gowns to look unified as one class," explained Class President Tyler Steinke.

Due to the end of the Mayan calender in December, the class of 2012 could be the last class to graduate. With the end of the world slowly approaching, Kerrie Morenz said, "If the world ended, I would feel grateful that I accomplished one major thing: graduating. Our class would definitely go out with a bang!"

Class of 2013

Best you've ever seen

By Maranda Brown
& Miranda Retzlaff

With 259 juniors, the class of 2013 dominated the halls of the school. With one year of high school left, they learned what their hobbies were, who their true friends were, and what kind of person they wanted to become in life.

Beating the seniors in a challenging game of Powder Puff, juniors celebrated with Coaches McDaniel and Nowak at a banquet on October 21. Junior representative for Homecoming was Brianna Niemiec escorted by Tyler Black.

Closer and more spirited than ever, Lillian Luttringer created a Facebook page specifically for the class. Any junior could become a member on this site. Students asked about homework assignments and talked about what they could do to win the spirit stick. "I made the page for the juniors because it's a good way for everyone to stay connected," said Luttringer. Luttringer, along with Alyssa Matson, came up with the idea to have a flash mob during the school day. Music played over the intercom while they danced to "Party Rock Anthem" and "The Bernie."

Nicole Wisneski, Vincent Lynch, and Taylor Nomanson earned lead roles in the fall play "Once Upon a Mattress." Wisneski exclaimed, "This was a really memorable experience for me because I had a lot of fun with my character. I got to climb 20 mattresses and jump into a fake moat. It was really cool."

Class Officers: President Shelby Schoon, Secretary Mackenzie Misner, Vice President Kimberly Stalbaum, Treasurer Vincent Lynch. Class sponsors were Mr. Jeff Martin and Mrs. Jill Steiner. "This is my first year being a class officer, and I really enjoy it. A lot of responsibility comes with the job, and I do my best to fulfill my duties," said Schoon.

Gabrielle Henning films her classmate for the weekly "What's Happening" segment. "I like being a part of this class because we all have to get along and work together to get things done right and on time. It allows you to open up and have fun while doing work," said Henning. Photo by M. Retzlaff

Jamie Stovall and Richard Gawronski work together on a group project. "My favorite class was US History because Mrs. Price is hilarious, and my best friend is in there," said Stovall. Photo by A. Matson

Working on her Spanish III essay, Taylor Nomanson uses her time wisely to get the job done. "Junior year was more challenging than any other year, but there's a lot more freedom than ever before, and I really enjoy that," commented Nomanson. Photo by M. Retzlaff

On the day of the game, Alysia Beenes and Brooke Scheurich wore their Powder Puff uniforms to school. "It was really exciting to beat the seniors, especially when the game was over, and everyone ran out onto the field," said Scheurich. Photo by M. Retzlaff

Dillon Grace does a dance during Freshman Mentor training day. "I like being goofy so I really loved wearing the hat. Being a Mentor is great, I really enjoy helping freshmen out and having a sense of responsibility over them. I am thankful I am a positive role model for them," said Grace. Photo by T. Kingma

“My fondest memory was the first day of school because everything was so hectic and confusing, but I knew my friends were right with me. Also, I liked having the freshmen come up to me and ask for help. It made me feel good that as an upperclassman, I could help those younger than me,” said Ashley Gooden. Photo by M. Brown

For the Lip Sync, Brittany Hale strolls around the gym in a robot costume. “I wanted to be a part of the dance, but I was told that they needed a robot so I decided to help. It was a lot of fun because I got to hang out with my friends and wear a silly outfit,” said Hale. Photo by M. Brown

Dancing to the junior class song, Mrs. Hallie Chicki and Sydeny Pumnea demonstrate how to do ‘The Bernie.’ Pumnea said, “I never thought I would be doing the Bernie in front of the class with my favorite teacher. We are all so close that I didn't feel embarrassed at all.” Photo by M. Brown

After being called out on the court to receive the golden football, junior girls pose with their trophy. “I liked how the whole school got together, and I enjoyed watching all the performances. # Sophomores Swing into School with Excitement

By Ashley Warren &
Michael Roth

Stuck in the middle, 266 sophomores strove to achieve recognition. Travis Conley in cross country and Luke Sanderson in tennis topped the charts while Ashley Norberg reigned as the class Homecoming Representative, escorted by Sanderson.

During the pep session, Michael Vega showcased his gymnastic skills in the lip sync. "It started when I was about eight years old. I had a mattress on my floor and tried a back flip, I got scared so I put my hands down, and it turned out to be a back-hand spring. I eventually taught myself more and more," commented Vega. Other sophomores who participated in lip sync included Katelin

Lott and Lacey Myers.

Leading the way were the class officers and first time sponsor Mr. Sean Lane. "We have a great class and a great goal. Everybody seemed to be involved. Our motto was, 'Nobody graduates later than 2014,'" explained Lane.

On October 12, all sophomores were required to take the PSAT during the school day. The test lasted for four hours and covered mathematics, language and critical reading skills. "I found the PSAT to be challenging, but not to the extent to where it was too hard," said Morgan Cavinder.

Hugh O' Brian Award went to Daniel Reyes. Alternate was Grace Huddleston.

Class officers: Secretary Hannah Wilder, vice president Natalie Lotz, president Tatiana Adams, and treasurer Madalyn Steinke. "The best part about being secretary is being involved with the class and helping choose activities to bring our class together," commented Wilder.

Freshmen Kick Off High School Years

By Belanah Chavez & Tyler Pritt

On August 16, 279 freshmen took their first step towards a diploma for a future career. "My first day was a little weird. I went to the Kougars Kick-off, but I still didn't know where I was," said Dustin Bohanan.

To kick off Homecoming week, with encouragement from their class sponsor, Mr. John Spinks, freshmen led a parade throughout the school. At the front of the parade was the 2015 banner designed by classmate Malia Comia. Freshmen defeated the sophomores 12 to 6 in Powder Puff. Hanna Helton escorted by Alan Klemp, was the Homecoming Representative. At the end of the week, freshmen placed second overall behind the seniors.

During the 23 minutes between periods five and six freshmen participated in Freshman Focus to help them better adjust to high school. "My favorite activity was when we had to dress up a classmate with toilet paper, we had a lot of ideas," said Matthew Kralik.

Outstanding freshmen included Mackenzie Glenn and Kelsie Chaney. Glenn performed in the Nutcracker at Star Plaza and played the parts of Harlequin, Butterfly, and a Russian. Chaney took college classes at Northwestern. "It was a fun and unique experience to take classes on a college campus," said Chaney.

Class Officers: Vice president Mia Stevens, president Bryce Gawronski, secretary Corissa Abell, treasurer Megan VanVleet. "Being vice president is pretty cool, I like being able to help people without the stress of presidency," said Stevens.

When it comes to style, Aracely Reyes and Heather Yates are right on time. Dressed in popular 80's fashion, Reyes sports tights, a layered skirt, accent belt and tapered shirt, where Yates wears the ever popular jeans and sweatshirt. No matter what they wear, their day centers on their favorite people and classes. "My favorite class was choir because I enjoy singing, and it lets me express myself," said Reyes.

Branching Out to Students

Teachers inspire their students by decorating their classrooms in unique ways. One of those teachers was Mrs. Hallie Chicki, "I wanted my room to look like a coffee shop or a café because they are relaxing and are places where art, like poetry and literature, is often shared."

In Mrs. Tara Kingma's room, pictures of students were on almost every wall, along with posters and flowers on her desk. "Kids love to see pictures of themselves. The posters are of what I teach, like Simple Six. I'm here every day, so I try to make it feel like home by putting up flowers."

Ms. Gayle Smith decorated the foreign language hallway to look like a Plaza in Europe or a Zacalo in Mexico. She put a fountain, a bicycle, plants, and many other objects in the hallway to give it a "tourist feel." Also, her classroom had flags covering the ceiling.

Right to Write

By Ashley Warren

From root words to short stories to Shakespeare, English teachers explored many ways to help students achieve great reading, writing, and grammar skills.

Freshmen learned the basics of grammar and read stories like The Odyssey, To Kill a Mock- ingbird, and Romeo and Juliet. Mr. Spinks' students created a poster on one of the characters from Romeo and Juliet and described their characteristics in a presentation.

Short stories and poems filled most English 10 classes. Sophomores were able to choose between multiple novels to read, some of which included The Secret Life of Bees, Buried Onions. English 10 classes also learned about Julius Caesar, Sir Lancelot, and King Arthur.

In addition to reading Of Mice and Men and The Adventures of Huckleberry Finn, juniors were required to construct a research paper. They also read various historical fiction excerpts including writings by Franklin, Jefferson and Lincoln. "The most challenging thing I did in English was read the Autobiography of Benjamin Franklin because it was hard to understand all the events in his life," said junior Marisol Sanchez. Honors English 11 classes had the opportunity to write an online student handbook

Add 'Em Up!

By Caitlyn Wallace

Each teacher has his or her own way of teaching math. In Mr. John Gray's classes, his student teacher, Mr. Wireman, taught a few of the lessons. "Mr. Wireman is a really good teacher, because he takes his time getting to know everyone and their distinct learning styles," said sophomore Miryam Herrera. Mr. Gray's students made up a rap video about the Pythagorean theorem, and students also made tessellations.

Mr. Jeff Hamstra involved his students by having them teach specific lessons.

In Mrs. Judy Roberts Algebra I classes, students used their knowledge to make origami boxes, which they filled with candy for Christmas. The boxes were constructed using precise measurements and folded squares and triangles. "There is no more rewarding job. I can tell every hour, every day if I am being successful. Interaction with the students, both in and out of the classroom, is so amazing. I absolutely love to teach," said Roberts.

Mr. Herald Hostetler's Pre-Calculus students took pictures of daily items such as staircases, trees, buildings, and desks, using them to make a poster based off of the 12 Basic Functions. This was one of the ways which Mr. Hostetler used to try to teach his students that all types of math can and do apply to the real world.

Education in Motion Tends to Stay in Motion

By Tyler Pritt

With 48 science classes taught each day, there was a lot to be learned. From studying the evolution of the earth to solving chemical formulas, six teachers took on a combined 1,200 students each day.

Many experiments and labs took place throughout the year in classes ranging from Biology to Chemistry to Physics.

In Mr. Aaron Warner's Biology I class, students dissected frogs. This was in accordance with their learning about the names and functions of the amphibian's organs and how they differed from humans.

In Anatomy and Physiology, co-taught by Mr. Warner and Mrs. Sue Hanley, students dissected fetus pigs. Part of their grade was to determine the gender and all of the different organs of the fetus.

A lab that was enjoyed by many students was Ms. Crystal Heuft's methane gas lab. During this lab, students took bubbles, produced by pumping methane gas into soapy water, and set them on fire. After showing the class how the bubbles burst into flames, Heuft let students take this experience into their own hands.

One of Mr. Shawn Lane's Chemistry II chemical labs was performed using acids and bases. In this lab, students used a base to turn a yellow colored acid to blue. This lab required much trial and error as a small drop could change the result of the lab.

Don't Just Take History, Make It

By Tyler Pritt

Anthony Hopkins once said, "There can be no understanding of the present without knowledge of the past." This was the basis for the study of Social Studies classes.

For the second consecutive year, Principal Keeman Lobsiger gave his World War II presentation to the World History classes in the Media Center. This included his vast collection of WWII uniforms, medals, weapons, pictures, and other memorabilia. "It was fantastic. Mr. Lobsiger had a lot of great items including jackets and guns that really caught my eye," said freshman Beau Sarosy.

During economics, Mr. Aaron Mullinax conducted a stock project, where multiple groups started with $100,000. They bought, sold, and traded stocks in the hopes of making money.

During World History classes, students took part in the World War I trench warfare. "I learned a lot, like that multiple diseases could be picked up and most limbs had to be amputated," said freshman Nicholas Acevez.

Seniors Steven Scally and Kerrie Morenz interviewed Judge Potter from Rensselaer about the 9th Amendment for Honors Government. "The most interesting part of interviewing Judge Potter was learning legal facts from a well respected man," said Morenz.

Other speakers, brought in by Mr. Norwine included Indiana's Attorney General.

Business in the Front, Party in the Back

By Ashley Warren

When it comes to the world of business, a serious attitude is the rule of the day, but when the rules go over the teens' heads, Mr. Brian Pillar and Mr. Dave DeFries used stories to help teens relate to the message. "I would count down the minutes until I could go into DeFries' class," said senior Austyn Misch.

Pillar's stories were equal in human interest as he explained council rules via a ticket he received when his wife littered. "Mr. Pillar made class so fun by telling us funny stories that tied in with the things we learned," said sophomore Andrew Jackson.

The difference between murder and manslaughter, among other useful things, was taught in Business and Personal Law, which was the only career class that was available for the students who wanted to become lawyers or any other career in that field.

Getting prepared for the "real world", students in Personal Finance and Business Foundations had the opportunity to be interviewed by Mr. DeFries. "The hardest part of interviewing was trying not to use the word 'um' constantly and answering all the questions quickly," said junior Stephanie Scally.

Mr. DeFries said, "When I got my first check when I started here about four years ago, I thought it was just the advice sheet and shoved it in my desk drawer. I only bounced about 20 checks. The students got a kick out of that story. Not funny at the time, but when I look at it now, it is a bit funny. Luckily DeMotte State Bank cut me some slack on some fees."

A Different Language is a Different Vision of Life

By Miranda Retzlaff

Speaking a completely different language is very overwhelming for any student. Four teachers tried their hardest to make the students feel welcomed and accepted as they walked into the rooms decorated beautifully with posters, flags, and maps. Two new faces appeared in the foreign language wing: Mrs. Polly Franklin and Mr. Michael Lovely.

New opportunities arose, such as educational field trips. Mrs. Gayle Smith's Spanish IV class took a trip to a dance studio where they had a chance to learn cultural dances. All Spanish students got an opportunity to go to Don Quixote and Mr. Lovely's French III went to Bon Femme, where they had to order their meals only speaking in Spanish or French, respectively. "Ordering in French wasn't simple, but Mr. Lovely prepared us very well," said junior Nicole Wisneski.

Mrs. Kay Mastens' students participated in a Festival, a celebration in which they dressed in costumes and played a variety of games.

Mrs. Franklin introduced her students to freerice.com. This website helped students review vocabulary and every question they got right donated 10 grains of rice to the United Nations World Food Program. "I really think students enjoy helping the less fortunate and it's a fantastic way to increase their knowledge of the language," said Franklin.

"Cooking... an Art that You can Eat."

By Maranda Brown

In Ms. Jennifer Schroeder's Early Childhood Development class, students learned about what it took to be an ideal parent. They learned about the stages the fetus goes through from conception to birth. Also, to give students the experience of parenthood, computer generated babies were handed out to take care of for a night. "Feed back from the students is that they don't like the night time wake ups and trying to get back asleep. The last thing they say is 'I am waiting to have kids!'" said Ms. Schroeder.

When taking the Early Childhood Education classes, students were allowed to work with children ages 2-5. Students also made a full week of lesson plans based on a theme such as shapes, the zoo, stranger danger, and numbers. "The kids bring a lot of joy to my day. I love to see the smiles on their faces when they achieve something, no matter how small it is," said senior Alyssa Watkins.

In Fashion and Textiles, students explored new ways to sew and design. At the end of the year, the students designed and modeled outfits that they made themselves.

Ms. Kelly Bengte taught the basics of food, how to prepare it, along with what a healthy diet consists of. "I love everything about my class. We get to make food, and learn while we eat," said freshman Emily Franzen.

"I work out..."

By Caitlin Abel

Push-ups, sit-ups, and jumping jacks were practiced by students on a daily basis during Mr. Dan Roberts' freshman physical education and Advanced Physical Conditioning classes.

New to school was the Advanced Physical Conditioning class

(APC). This class was designated for juniors and seniors who wanted to be physically challenged. "APC greatly increases your fitness, and it teaches you that a 45 pound bar gets heavy quickly," said junior Jay Weaver. They ran perimeters, lifted weights, did squats, tested how many times they could max out on different machines, ran on treadmills, and spent time in the pool. They were also expected to keep their grades up, as if they were on a sports team, or they would be removed from the class.

Freshmen participated in a different way. They started the year playing flag football, volleyball, tennis, pickle ball, and swimming. With the exit of the middle school students, swimming was extended to an all year class.

They finished up by participating in floor hockey, soccer, softball, basketball, tumbling and weight-lifting. "My favorite part of PE was floor hockey. It was a lot of fun, and we worked as a team," said freshman Carley Abel.

The students were permitted to use the new fitness room, complete with multiple treadmills, weight benches, bikes,

Moving into Life a Step Ahead of the Rest

By Belanah Chavez

"What do you want to be when you grow up?" was a common question which became serious during high school. Career classes like Law Enforcement, Health Occupations, Computer Repair, Vocational Welding, and Cadet Teaching helped future workers find the answer.

"Law Enforcement interested me because I wanted to learn more about what it would be like to have a job as a detective or criminal profiler," commented Emily Myers. Through speakers, a gun simulator, Marine visits, and assignments, teens learned the life of a policeman. Students hung up posters in May to honor fallen police officers.

Health Occupation students experienced what it was like to be a doctor or nurse. Students used mannequins to practice skills. During their class hours, they went to hospitals or nursing homes to job shadow. "What interested me about Health Occupations was learning something new every day, especially at the clinical sites," said Jessica Boyer.

Students in Cadet Teaching received the experience of a lifetime in the Wheatfield or DeMotte Elementary classrooms after completing the ground work in Peer Tutoring. "My favorite part of Cadet Teaching was the interaction and relationships I gained working with the students," explained future teacher Lyndsay Lopez.

attention at all times. There are days when you are going to be overwhelmed and stressed, but you have to be calm and always have control of your class," said Taylor. Photo by H. Chicki

Painting Your Way

By Adelaide Cobb

Be it the paints, platters, clay, glue, or the stressful expressions, artists stood out among the crowd.

"One of the most stressful parts about my bracelet was getting it done on time. It was made up of 30 strings. One day when I was walking, a girl got caught on one of my strings, kept walking and snapped it. Half of my bracelet only had 29 strings. It was the most stressful and frustrating thing of all," commented senior John Conley.

Maryann VanSoest

invited Ceramics to participate in a pit fire. Students dug a hole to create an outdoor kiln to fire their projects. This gave the pottery a smoky, rustic look.

Advanced Photography was a new experience for Cochran and the students who used digital cameras and computers instead of film for their projects.

Sculpture experimented with new material such as soap, wire, and papier mache.

Drawing looked at self portraits from a new perspective by drawing the back of the head, rather than focusing on the face. This helped students learn to draw difficult textures, such as hair.

Outstanding projects were sent to the Prairie Arts Council Art Show at St. Joseph's College and were displayed on May 17 at KV.

Building a Better Future

By Caitlin Abel

Hammers, nails, saws, cement, and 11 senior Building Trades boys were needed to build a duplex from the ground up in the Risner Realty Subdivision in early fall. Under the direction of instructor Mr. Kevin Mulvihill, the team started out by pouring the cement for the foundation. From there, they built the frame, put siding on the house, attached the roof, and then headed inside to learn the basics of drywalling, cabinetry, plumbing, and electricity.

"For me, the best part of Building Trades was that I got to be with friends. We had fun while we were working. I also learned a lot about carpentry," said Travis Yates.

Due to a mild winter and warm spring, the construction team spent the last month of school tying up odds and ends. They poured cement for the sidewalk, finished putting up the trim, and landscaped the duplex.

Aside from building the duplex, members took part in community work. Toward the end of the year, the team helped Jasper County Habitat for Humanity. The class spent two days setting walls for a handicapped accessible home. "The best part was that I helped a good family that was in desperate need of help, and I know they appreciated it," said David Cooper.

From a hole in the ground to a sign marked sold, the team created an energy efficient home.

No Need to Fear, Tech is Here

By Maranda Brown

Signing up for technology meant signing up to help the school. Many times when computers or desks were broken, students stepped in to complete the repairs.

In addition to repairs, teens in Mr. Jeff Martins' Technology Systems class and Mr. Greg Pulido's Computer Repair classes focused on the basics of the computer. Mr. Martin also taught a radio/TV class where students made movies and video clips, and produced 'What's Happening', the school's weekly TV show.

In Project Lead the Way, students worked on designing, building, and inventing something of their own. Seniors Trevor Overstreet and Zachary Ratliff built a bike stand that connected to the back of a backpack. "It took us all semester to get everything right, but I loved the idea and thought it was pretty cool," said Overstreet.

Agriculture students learned about wildlife, the production of meat, and the fundamentals of starting an agricultural career in addition to growing poinsettias, hanging house plants, and summer flowers. "Being out in the greenhouse and seeing the plants develop was the best," said junior Sarah Axtell.

Due to medical reasons, Mr. Jeff Mengel was replaced by Mr. Hass for the last two months of school.

Needing help, the yearbook staff called sophomore Mitchell Chorzempa. "I have learned a lot about fixing computers in Computer Repair. I enjoy being able to help people out," said Chorzempa. Photo by M. Brown

"I'm not even in Mr. Martin's class, but I wish I was. I got to have the experience of handling the camera, and it made me wish I would have taken the class in the first place," said junior Matthew Mezacapo Photo by Z. Wright

Acting is Behaving Truthfully Under Imaginary Circumstances

By Caitlin Abel

Lights, set, make-up, and costumes were the basics of Mrs. Jill Steiner's Theater Arts and Theater Production classes. "What I liked best of Theater Productions was being a director. It was a different experience than acting. It was stressful, but fun," said senior Sarah Hinchy.

Starting their year, students learned about the basic elements of staging which included Productions rule, "Never turn your back to the audience."

After learning the basics of acting and staging, young actors learned about stage make-up. They were allowed to create a face, including bruises, blood, or cuts. They also learned how to make it look like somebody appeared older with wrinkles, or a slimmer nose.

In Theater Arts, the famous "Ice Cream Scene" allowed students to put their personal spin on a scene.

They performed music videos that were first directed by Theater Production students. Next, Theater Arts students directed their own videos.

Their final consisted of a personal twist on Disney's Beauty and the Beast, The Little Mermaid, Hercules, and Sleeping Beauty.

Theater Productions took a different approach to their class. They focused on directing and producing a show. They were taught how to run the light board, create a set, and set up staging of actors.

where the actors spoke out the lyrics in a poetic form instead of singing and dancing.

Choir sent junior Brittney Hale and seniors Francis Allen, Kerrie Morenz, Kara Ooms, and David Phillips to All-State Choir. Senior Elizabeth Masten was chosen for the National Phantom Regiment. With this drum and bugle corps, Masten traveled for three months for the second consecutive year throughout the United States.
- "Dazzling" was the only word that could describe Student Council's January Winterfest Olympic Opening Ceremony which used a blackened gym and spotlights to introduce various acts.
- Senior Travis Yates celebrated as the auctioneer exclaimed, "Sold for $1,000!" at the annual FFA member auction.
- "Caring" was the response for cancer patient Amanda Knight who received over $1,000 from Youth Alive, which sold ribbons to aide in the expenses of her treatment.
- On March 9, teens donated $1,079 for "Hats for Henryville", the area devastated by a tornado.
- Dance team was lost for words when they took first place for their "Tricky" performance at the Regional Dance competition on February 26. Senior Amanda Ferrell received a $500 scholarship for her solo.

The thing I liked the most was seeing the smiles on Mr. Cates' class when they received one of the pizza parties," said Lynch. The other pizza party went to Mrs. McKinney's SRT. # Using Your Smarts

Stars came out at Valparaiso University in April when Brittney Ferris, Trevor Shelhart, Robert Fraticelli, and Ryan Beere competed on Making the Grade, a 30 minute show that aired in April. After winning the first two rounds, the team ran into heavy fire against Andean.

In additional competition, Ferris and Beere anchored the Spell Bowl team, which brought home the second place trophy from their first outing in North Judson. In round two they placed 17th out of 42 schools.

In January, Beere, Ferris, Fraticelli, and Shelhart earned numerous individual awards and placed 5th out of 9 against six member squads. "Competing was fun! You get a sense of accomplishment when you do well," said Beere.

In March, the team expanded as the Super Bowl competitions pitted area schools against each other. In spite of a strong showing, the team missed a state bid by a few points.

In the area coach's voting, Brittney Ferris was elected to the All-Conference Area Team for her dedication to Academic competition.

A Journey Through Wonderland

"Wonderland doesn't happen to Alice, Alice happens to Wonderland" was the motto for the cast and crew of Alice in Wonderland, directed by Mrs. Jill Steiner. They worked hard to create a new type of show that the audience applauded enthusiastically on March 2 and 3.

Starring as Alice, sophomore Rachel Kerkes pushed through an Upper Respiratory Infection on opening night. "I was very upset about nearly losing my part, but I wasn't going to let that stop me. I love being on stage, so I powered through it!" exclaimed Kerkes.

The part of Chessy was most interestingly cast as senior Rachel Scott who was the voice of the famous cat. He only appeared on stage as a videotaped puppet. Throughout the show, a projector screen was used to emphasize important moments and quotes, and also to help create a "video game" feel for the show. This concept of Wonderland being a video game was tied together when the game glitched at the end, and Alice realized none of her experiences were real.

4. Caitlyn Wallace, 10

Senior Humpty Dumpty Michael Dorrance criticizes Alice's vocabulary as she attempts to ask him for directions. This was one of the many distractions that frustrated Alice during her time in Wonderland.

Asking directions to the croquet field, Alice finds that the Duchess is full of morals and life lessons. "My favorite part of any play I do is the way the audience reacts to the scenes. It's good to see and hear them enjoying the performance," commented senior Sarah Hinchy.

Jordan Clark, 10, & Cassandra Ooms, 9

"Off with their heads!" screams the Red Queen as the audience, and the King, junior Kyle Noland, shivers with fear. "Everyone thinks that it's the lead who carries the show. In some cases that might be true, but here at KV it takes everyone! From the actors, big or small, to our sound lights and set crew. We make it happen!" exclaimed senior Jordan Wright.

Senior Steven Scally, vigorously waving scissors in the air, tells Alice that she needs to cut her hair. "My favorite part of being the Mad Hatter was shattering tea cups. I would set out every night to break everything on the table. One practice I broke a cup clean in half and proceeded to 'drink' out of it. Later, I found it shattered," described Scally.

"My favorite part was when I had to switch characters right before the performance and learn all the new lines and scenes," said sophomore Mirka Roman Cortez.

"The greatest part about being Chessy would be watching all of the actors grow as individuals," commented senior Rachel Scott.

"Being a senior, I felt that I needed one last time to act with my friends and have a good time. Being the Gryphon allowed me to do that," commented Nathan Kingma.

Acting as the caterpillar, junior Lillian Luttringer is wearing a rendered prom dress. "Having this role in the play was exciting, yet very stressful at the same time. I wouldn't trade the experience for the world. I love participating in all aspects of drama," said Luttringer.

Kolor it Up

Whether it was with flags flying, poems being scribbled down, or crocheting bags for the homeless, Kolor Guard, Mirage, and Art Club made sure their mark was made.

"Breaking Away" was the theme Mirage tackled as Mrs. Sue Kwiatkowski took on her first year as advisor. They also held a contest for who would design the

Mr. Tony Cochran lead his first year of Art Club, using art to give back. Members crocheted mats out of plastic grocery bags which were donated in late May to a homeless shelter in Chicago.

Kolor Guard started their season off in early June. The show was "Reflections of Earth", in which they performed with flags, rifles, sabers, swing flags, and globes. During the week of band camp, Guard members received the spirit stick for being the only section that had their entire show prepared by the end of the week.

Each song was accompanied with a soloist. The three soloists were seniors Kerrie Morenz, Courtney Marsh, and Caitlin Abel. Guard received two Auxiliary Awards in competition.

Learning for the Future

Surrounded by books from 7:30 - 2:30, it was ironic that some teens sought out even more knowledge through participation in Book Club and Future Educators of America. However, 37 students enjoyed discussing personally read novels or developing skills in a hands on club for future educators.

In Book Club, teens were able to choose novels to discuss. "The love of books and discussing books with others is fun, and the main reason why I became the sponsor," said Librarian Mrs. Sylvia Feicht.

On April 18, Principal Lobsiger led a meeting about WWII. Members read the book Billy Boyle, Blood Alone and compared it to the stories Lobsiger shared about the war. Lobsiger's WWII memorabilia was also set up in the library on March 14 and 15.

In FEA, members went around to SRT classes and asked students to write down their favorite school memory for the Teacher Wall of Fame during Teacher Appreciation Week. "I liked going to different SRTs and reading everyone's favorite memories," said Lucas Villalpando.

March to your own beat

"Go Band!" was the new chant that kicked off band season. Marching Band began with their show, "Visions of Earth," led by drum major seniors Lindsey Marie Strong, David Phillips, and junior Jordan Kroll.

Musicians performed in the festival division, where they placed gold at every competition with one of the most challenging shows in band history.

Marching band performed during games and cheered in the stands. "My favorite thing is leading the band cheers since freshman year which makes the game a lot more fun. The only downfall is that I usually lose my voice the next day," said senior John Cardaras.

Next was pit band, which played during the school musical, Once Upon a Mattress. Senior Kara Ooms was in the pit and acted as a Nightingale in the show. "Even though the music was hard, the most challenging was putting on a poofy skirt without anyone seeing," said Ooms.

Musicians were allowed to reach outside of the classroom. Senior Lindsey Marie Strong and Elizabeth Masten were two of the 350 students chosen for the IMEA Honor Band. Masten was also selected for a second year to perform in the International Phantom Bugle Corps.

In May, band was awarded the Indiana State Music Association's All-Music Award for earning golds throughout the year.

Sing Songs for the Soul

Beginning Choir, Women's Choralaires, the premier group, and Concert Choir were busy early in the year with a $3,000 fundraiser, where they sold Fannie Mae candy bars and healthy snacks.

Also in the Fall, Indiana Choral Directors' Association held auditions for the All-State Choir and selected five students from this very competitive process. Junior Brittney Hale and seniors Frank Allen, Kerrie Morenz, Kara Ooms and David Phillips participated in the All-State Choir in Indianapolis.

In addition to the annual fall and holiday choir concerts, Concert Choir also performed for the Christmas Tree lighting at the Fairchild House in DeMotte, and in a holiday production at the Chicago Street Theatre in Valparaiso.

Solo and Ensemble competitors won over 30 gold and silver medals at district. Twelve soloists and four ensembles were chosen to advance to the state competition in Indianapolis. All three choirs performed for the ISSMA choir in April.

For the second consecutive year, Concert Choir competed in Level I (the most competitive level) and was awarded a gold rating for both their performance and sight-singing.

Fine Arts Department ended the school year with the "Festival of the Arts". This final concert featured all choir, band, and orchestra students in a spectacular display of musical talent. "The most difficult part of choir would be letting go of the people that have become family," said freshman Aracely Reyes.

Dance Your Heart Out

Fifteen girls made up the Varsity Dance Team, which worked hard to perform a total of two mini-camps and three routines to Proud Mary, Superbass, and Burn it to the Ground.

Five of the girls also participated in the Midwest Cheer and Dance competition, where they won first place in the Hip-Hop category. At the same competition, senior captain Amanda Ferrell won a $500 scholarship for her solo. "Knowing that all of my effort and hard work paid off was a great feeling. It showed me that I can achieve anything that I put my mind to," said Ferrell.

Over the summer, the team attended a four day camp at Valparaiso University, which taught them a total of nine routines combined at different levels of difficulty. One routine, "Proud Mary", was performed during basketball season.

On February 18, the team hosted the Sweetheart Dance with the theme "A Night in Paris", which was decorated in purples and golds.

All black uniforms and warm-up jackets added to the visibility of the team, which was coached by Sherri Morrison.

Praying for the Future

Pathfinders worked hard to be good role models as they spread the love of God during morning worships in the lobby and at weekly meetings.

During the first club meeting of the year, old and new Pathfinders learned about adviser Mrs. Richie's exciting trip to Israel over the summer.

During meetings when Mrs. Richie did not have any activities planned, students held a devotion, prayer, and played learning games about the Bible.

One of the meetings consisted of Pathfinders finding and putting Bible verses on cars.

On October 7 the entire school was invited to See You At the Pole where teens shared in singing and praying for the good of the community. "My youth group leader was one of the people in charge, and he wanted us to go, and I had a good experience," said Michelle Kent.

When spring came, Mrs. Richie told Pathfinders to bring in candy. Candy and Bible verses were put in eggs and hidden in the courtyard. When found, the messages were read aloud. Their final activity was writing Bible verses in chalk on the sidewalk. "I thought it was an enjoyable experience, and a good idea," said Adam Sayers.

Learning to Do, Doing to Learn, Earning to Live, Living to Serve

The motto of the National Future FFA organization was a great representation.

FFA members raised about $3,000 in the annual member auction, at which members were sold to bidders for a day of work. Senior Travis Yates was sold for the highest, going for $1,000.

FFA week was held February 22-24. Dress up days included: Farm Implement and FFA T-shirt Day, Camouflage Day, Carhart and Boots Day, and Hillbilly Day. "The goal for FFA week was for the student body to recognize the true importance of agriculture in their daily lives," commented Mr. Steve Inman.

The annual Awards Banquet was held on April 16. Major awards given included: Star Chapter Farmer: Emily Tucker, Star Green Hands: Alan Klemp and Heather Yates, Deklab Award and Outstanding Senior Member: Kelsey Jefferson, Mental Attitude Award: Darian Myers.

"The best thing about FFA is the leadership skills that are developed through contests," commented senior Nathan Kingma.

Freshman Mentors

FM stood for more than just Freshman Mentor. To a freshman, it meant a friend, or a tutor. A Freshman Mentor was someone who first time high schoolers could count on. "FM's" were the foundation for the incoming class of 2015.

In the beginning of March, stacks of applications to become an "FM" were printed. By August, Mentors had been chosen, and had undergone 18 hours of training.

All of the training wasn't put to waste. In August, Mentors ran Freshman Orientation where incoming freshmen met their FM's and their Freshman Focus classmates, played team building activities, and ran through their schedules.

Throughout the year, "FM's" taught freshmen how to survive high school. Mentors helped the freshmen gain the study and social skills they needed to be successful in high school and for some, college. "I think the program is great. It really supported me in the transition between middle school and high school. It has reinvigorated my passion for learning," added freshman Christian Crum.

Jay Weaver listens intently to one of his freshmen. Weaver felt that it was important to hear what his freshman had to say. "It is paramount to help freshmen think that they matter. The main problem freshmen have in high school is finding their place. Your identity suddenly becomes everything, and you feel like you have to be someone you're not. We let the freshmen know it's okay to be themselves instead of the cool kid that they think they have to be," said Weaver. Photo by S. Poe

Alexis Tinkle, 11 & Logan Anderson, 9

Freshman Mentors believe that hard work pays off. Over the summer, Mentors trained 18 hours for one big day: Freshman Orientation. Orientation lasted from 7 am until 3 pm. Mentors were given the chance to bond with their freshmen. "266 freshmen registered for the Kougars Kick Off, which was our largest ever! Freshmen and mentors enjoyed a great day!" explained Vice Principal Mr. Guy Skrobul. Photo by T. Kingma

Dominant: "The Freshman Dance was so much fun because we got to be silly with the freshmen. It showed them that we aren't scary upper classmen," said senior Faith McDaniel. Photo by T. Kingma

They're Funnier Than They Look!

Laughter filled the auditorium on May 25 and 26 as the four Improv teams, led by seniors Francis Allen, Sarah Hinchy, Steven Scally, and Rachel Scott, fought in a battle of wits for the victory.

The Hipsters, Sophisticated Punks, Sassy Senioritas, and the Flower Power Magic Rainbow Glitter Ponies competed in games such as Do-Run-Run, Chain Murder Mystery, Genre Jump, and

What's My Line?. Both nights, the final round was fought hard between the Sophisticated Punks and the Flower Power Magic Rainbow Glitter Ponies. However, the Sophisticated Punks, led by Allen, took home the "trophy" both nights.

"It felt great to win both nights. It is always nice to see that people really enjoy Improv, and liked my team enough to vote for us both nights. The best part of Improv is all the time we spend together, practicing. Some of my funniest memories are of Improv rehearsals. I'll miss the people the most. We have become a very close knit unit over these past few weeks," commented Allen.

New to the group, Mr. Sean Lane assisted Mrs. Jill Steiner in coaching the troupe. Adding his own flare to the show, graduate Anthony Shevock returned to referee for the weekend.

Embrace Your Talent

Singing, dancing, and improv filled the stage when students showed their talent during the annual Student-Teacher Talent Show on April 10, which was sponsored by Freshman Mentors and senior Steven Scally was the host.

Earning the highest score of the night and the winning the title was junior Nina Maze and Ms. Crystal Heuft, performing a violin and viola duet.

Coming in second was Mrs. Steidle and Mrs. Price, along with the Health Occ girls, who danced for Breast Cancer Awareness.

Third place was awarded to Mr. Jeff Martin along with Lucas Bencze, Henry Shelby, Jordan Clark, Nicole Wisneski, Patrick Snow-Counterman, Mirka Roman-Cortez, Joseph Wright, Miranda Dodge, Cynthia

Atkinson and Devin Gillham as they performed to Hallelujah. "I loved being able to make beautiful music with others. I wish I could do that every day," said Dodge.

Judging the talent show was Mrs. Gayle Smith, Mr. Tony Cochran, and graduate Shayla Recker. "I really enjoyed the opportunity to interact with the students outside of the usual school setting," Performing on their violin and viola, junior Nina Maze and Ms. Crystal Heuft stunned the crowd and the judges with their music. Their duet won them first place. "I didn't know what to think about winning first place. It was awesome getting to show that classical music can still be cool, but I also loved getting to play with an amazing musician like Ms. Heuft," said Maze. Photo by A. Warren

While playing an improv game, sophomore Rachel Kerkes, senior Francis Allen and Mr. Sean Lane show the crowd their skills. "I wasn't nervous doing improv in the talent show because it comes naturally to me," said Allen. Photo by A. Warren

"I am so glad I participated in the talent show. I had a lot of fun, and no one expected us to turn around and have president masks on," said junior Maranda Brown. Photo by A. Warren

"The Spirit"

Journalism is the ability to meet the challenge of filling space.

"There is nothing like walking into class and seeing everybody working and getting their stories done," said sophomore Lucas Villalpando. Staffers knew when they walked in the door that either something was due or something was in need to be done.

However, Newspaper wasn't all deadlines. Other responsibilities involved coming up with the funds to publish the paper. Fundraisers included Little Caesars pizza kits and Terri Lynn candy; the money made from the fundraisers went toward the cost of printing the paper.

Some common articles found in the paper were teacher features, movie reviews, sports events, and upcoming events.

The staff also had work nights, during which staffers would stay after school and finish the paper. They had about a month to finish one issue. In that month, staff members would brainstorm story ideas, interview people, research the facts, layout, print and fold the paper.

New Inductees for Quill and Scroll Honor Society were Christopher Berns, Tatiana Adams, Lucas Villalpando, Shelby Hurst, Michael Roth, and Miranda Retzlaff.

Senior Patience Richie adds up her final flower sales from one of the many fundraisers. "Newspaper takes mass amounts of dedication and perseverance. It's something you have to love in order to do it, as it can become frustrating. However, it's all worth it in the end," said Richie. Photo by Z. Wright

"Newspaper has taught me to expand my horizons. I was directed to write about many different subjects. I had to learn to open up to new people I normally wouldn't talk to. Overall, it's really taught me to come out of my shell, and I'm thankful for that. I know it will help me one day in the real world," said sophomore Tatiana Adams. Photo by B. Likens

Positive Attitude Backed by Purpose

Recognizing outstanding high school students that demonstrated excellence in scholarship, leadership, service, character, and citizenship was what National Honor Society aimed to do. Shawn Lane was the sponsor of NHS.

Members had a chance to participate in an abundance of different volunteer opportunities. This included Courtyard Cleanup, Family Fun Night at DeMotte Elementary School, and Bingo at Oak Grove. They also worked the concession stands during Little League games.

Highlights included finding a baby duck and bunnies during the spring Courtyard Cleanup. "My favorite was the duck, who was small and black with huge feet. We wanted to keep him as our club mascot, but, unfortunately, he flew away," said senior Adelaide Cobb. Family Fun Night was also a hit for the members. They enjoyed working with children and watched them be enthusiastic about the prizes they won.

New members were inducted on March 15, at a ceremony where family members watched them pledge themselves into NHS.

During the ceremony, inductees sign the master roster for National Honor Society. One of the many new sophomore members, Christopher Berns, said, "Being a part of NHS was such an honor. We do a lot of volunteer work, so I'm really glad I have a new way to serve my community." Photo by K. Peterson

A Genuine Princess is Exceedingly Rare

Laughter filled the auditorium as the queen (Rachel Scott) rudely and obnoxiously announced that the silent king (Steven Scally), who was chasing after another woman, was a "ghastly" man. If that didn't make you laugh, the prince's (Vincent Lynch) dilemma dealing with his love for the "moat swimmer", Princess Winfred (Nicole Wisneski & Kiana Letica), would. Once Upon a Mattress was performed November 4, 5, 11, and 12.

A unique situation occurred during the casting of the production. For their first musical, freshman Letica and junior Wisneski shared the part of the princess. Wisneski performed opening and closing nights, while Letica performed the nights in between.

Not only was the princess's part unique, but many other characters were given first time leads. Junior Vincent Lynch, senior Nathan Kingma, and freshman Cassandra Ooms were all given their first lead.

Senior Kara Ooms was given two parts. Ooms played in the pit, along with playing the Nightingale who sings the princess to sleep.

"Being a princess was fun, yet challenging," explained junior Lillian Luttringer. Photo by K. Peterson

"Singing and dancing was difficult at times, but overall it was an amazing experience. I can't wait for the spring play," explained sophomore Mirka Roman-Cotez. Photo by K. Peterson

One of the biggest challenges senior Steven Scally has to face is keeping quiet. "Anyone who knows me knows that I really enjoy talking. I tried to make up for my silence backstage," explained Scally. Scally's part as the king had very few lines. Throughout the musical, Scally had to act out his words rather than speak them. Here he motioned what he wanted to say to senior Nathan Kingma and freshman Cassandra Ooms. Photo by K. Peterson

Playin' On Your Heartstrings

Orchestra gave talented students a chance to explore their musical abilities. They participated in concerts and competitions where they performed a variety of songs, including Fantasia on Greensleeves, Spartacus, and Charlie Brown Christmas. "My favorite part of orchestra is the variety of music. We get to play so many different pieces that have a lot of unique rhythmic styles, which makes playing wonderful," said junior Nina Maze.

In February, students traveled to Indianapolis to perform at the State Solo and Ensemble contest. Junior Alexis Tinkel received a silver on the cello. Receiving golds were sophomore Alyssa Lunsford on cello and junior Nina Maze on viola. They also participated in the ISSMA competition on April 13 and 14. "The most beneficial part of being in orchestra is being able to better myself along with people of other ranks while having a great time," said sophomore Ashley Jarrette.

Aside from the usual direction from Mr. Ken Steidle, members were led by student teacher Kaitlyn Whinery.

Playing the violin, junior Morgan Mann and freshman Tara Beere prepare for their upcoming events. Students were required to put in extra practice time before performmances. "The most stressful part of orchestra is knowing the music. You have to practice so much to make it sound good. It's a lot of work," said Mann. Photo by C. Abel

After performing her solo, senior Chelsea Fulkerson plays along with junior Jacob Cooper and the rest of the orchestra. "For me, one of the best parts of orchestra is having a creative outlet. It's nice to know that partway through the day I can just play my music and not have to worry about homework or anything else. Just being able to get lost in the music is one of the best things," said Fulkerson. Photo by C. Abel

"The best part about orchestra is the music. I love hearing how it all blends together to make an amazing sound. I love orchestra," said junior Bradley Ast. Photo by C. Abel

"Being the only one who plays piano and drums is pretty cool because I can switch to different instruments so I don't get bored," said sophomore Cari Knip. Photo by C. Abel

Making Healthy Choices

One pint of blood can save up to three lives; KV students saved approximately 28 lives with 85 pints of blood from approximately 90 donors. "A few people were unable to donate for various reasons. There were 100 people signed up, and we had to turn some away for lack of time. It was very successful," said SADD sponsor Mrs. Sue Kwiatkowski.

SADD officers were senior Taylor Isajewicz

(president), senior Nicole Luckey (vice president), and sophomore Hannah Klemp (secretary).

SADD ordered 'Never Again' bracelets in memory of Eric Sims and Taylor Cavinder. SADD also planned Post Prom, which was held at Inmans.

Environmental Club was led by Ms. Sarah Patterson. President was senior John Conley. Vice president was senior Taylor Isajewicz. Secretary was sophomore Christopher Berns, and treasurer was senior Alice Santell.

The first outing that they had was ice skating at Deep River Water Park, where they were also treated to hot chocolate. In early January, the club went bowling at Hebron Lanes.

In spring, after being approved by Mr. Keeman Lobsiger and the school board, members started an organic vegetable garden in the center courtyard. All produce was donated to local food pantries.

Leaders Inspire Others to Branch Out

Under the guidance of the two new advisers Mr. Michael Lovely and Mrs. Polly Franklin, President Steven Scally and Vice President Sydney Robinson led Student Council to new heights.

The team introduced multiple events to their agenda: a Homecoming bonfire, Class Olympics, and a Holiday Hospitality Committee which made hand-turkeys for the staff which said, 'We're thankful for you!'. They also handed out pencils and candy canes during finals week, sponsored Valentines for Veterans, and decorated for the school's 41st birthday.

Other events organized by the 52 members included Homecoming, Winterfest, Dance Marathon, two Dodgeball Tournaments, and a food drive.

Members also attended two IASC events: State Convention in the fall and Representative Assembly in the spring.

Officers included Tyler Steinke (sentinel), David Phillips (parliamentarian), Kimberly Peterson (historian), Hannah Swim (secretary) and Hannah Misch (treasurer).

An Eventful Year

What is there to do on a Thursday night, you ask? Dodgeball, Obstacle Courses, Kickball, and more! Throughout the year, Student Council was hard at work, putting on event after event to create fun opportunities for students.

One dodgeball tournament was held per semester, allowing anyone to play. "I was so glad that we finally won our senior year, and it was awesome because I succeeded with my bros! Playing with my friends made it all the more memorable," exclaimed senior Ronald Gatlin.

Olympic games were hosted for class competition during the beginning of February. Events included Kickball, water sports such as Polo and Relays, an obstacle course, and Spikedown. Spikedown was extended to all four classes.

As a charitable and fun way to end the year, Dance Marathon was held at Crown Point High School. "Dance Marathon was so much fun! I loved that it was at Crown Point. It was such a great cause, and Basketball was my favorite part," said junior Vincent Lynch.

"Playing kickball with all of my friends was a great time. Having the Olympic games was new and exciting. Even though we lost, it was still worth it," said junior Jacob Swartz. Photo by B. Likens

"I played Spikedown because I like to be involved. High School is no fun if you don't get involved. I loved every minute of it," commented senior Collin Andriskio.

"Dodgeball was a very exciting event. It was fun cooperating with my team to try and advance to the finals," said sophomore Michael Roth. Photo by B. Likens

A Night in Paris

Dance team held their second annual Valentine's Day Dance on the night of February 18.

As couples walked through the cafeteria doors, the beautifully decorated room made them feel like they were in the romantic country of France.

"Planning the dance was very stressful, but it was well worth it because the dance was profitable and fun!" exclaimed junior Lillian Luttringer.

Students danced all night with music provided by the Heartbreakers, which included colorful lights and a projector screen that showed music videos and live footage of the dancers. "I really enjoyed the dance a lot! The Dance team really out did themselves with the decorations and the setup of the atmosphere," said senior Traci Baker.

After they announced the winners, the excited couples got a special dance. Winners were seniors Amanda Ferrell and Alec Gunter, juniors Shelby Schoon and John Morrison, sophomores Megan Kinney and Devin Uylaki, and freshmen Madeline Klauer and Eric Philbrook.

Let the Games Begin...

Starting off the second semester in a fun and exciting way was what Student Council aimed for with the Olympic Winterfest which started on January 17.

It began with new dress up days. Monday was class color day, which was based off the Olympic colors. Wednesday was Ugly Sweater Day, followed by Dress Your Age Day. Friday was Red Day. "I loved dress your age day because I enjoyed dressing like my grandmother," said senior Faith McDaniel.

Mrs. Jill Steiner and Mr. Jeff Martin planned a brand new Pep Session with more students involved. "We thought that the opening ceremony would be the highlight of the week," commented Steiner. A garage band featuring seniors Lucas Benzce and Kara Ooms who sang "We Are the Champions", while the orchestra and band played along with them. All winter sports and the dance team performed in the spot light in the blacked out gymnasium.

Another part of Winterfest was the Olympic Games. Students had a chance to participate in Kickball, Spikedown, Water Polo, and an Obstacle Course.

During Closing Ceremonies, sophomores' hard work paid off when they received the Spirit Flake.

Branching out to Publish Memories

One hundred and eighty days, 19 staff members, two editors, one adviser, five deadlines, three cameras, and five computers were needed to finish the book. Stress was not a foreign word to the Pride staffers. "If you looked up yearbook in the dictionary, the definition would be stress. If you're not stressed, then you're not doing your job, but at the same time you've got to love it," said junior Alyssa Matson.

Continuing the tradition set the previous year, yearbook put out its second all-color book. To raise funds to pay for this, staffers sold Little Ceaser pizza kits, nuts and candies, Valentine's Day carnations, jewelry, and Halloween Dress-Up Day stickers.

Under the leadership of senior co-editors Kimberly Peterson, Bianca Likens, and adviser Kathy McKinney, staff worked hard on a book themed Branching Out to Be. Staffers also earned a rating of "Excellent" by the state, which was the second best rating a yearbook could receive. This rating also put the book in the running for the Hoosier Star Award.

At the State Convention in October, senior Kimberly Peterson won first place in the Student Life Spread on-site competition and senior Adelaide Cobb won first place in the Infographic Design competition.

Encouraging Others

Sponsored by Partners for Drug Free Jasper County, Pioneerz teens were role models who worked hard to make the school safer and drug free.

In the fall, club members went on a field trip to Camp Cary in Lafayette where they learned how to deal with bad situations. "Pioneerz has taught me how to act as a leader and solve conflicts," said sophomore Joli Jungels.

At the end of the year, the club had a pizza party where seniors Justin Wicker, Cody Jones, and Trevor Overstreet received pins. Wicker was also awarded a $500 scholarship.

Another role model club was Youth Alive, a club in which members discussed how to help those in need. Youth Alive sponsored a hat day for Crohn's Disease, and all proceeds went toward finding a cure for the disease.

They also sponsored Ribbons for Amanda Knight, raising $1,200. Contributing to this fund was junior Jordan Kroll, who knitted hats and donated the money to Knight. In addition to Knight, Kroll had supported cancer research since 7th grade.

"I enjoy making hats and giving children hope. I've donated $500 this year, and around $1,000 total to St. Anthony's Cancer ward," said Kroll.

"Zero Individuals" One Team

With the help of new Head Coach Brad Stewart, Kougars players were determined to improve their record.

In June, Wheatfield had a straight line wind storm that knocked down trees and the score board, which costed $20,000 to have replaced.

Despite having had the smallest team and only one senior, Timothy Hillers, Kougars came together as one to pull out their first win in over time 22-19 against conference rival Hobart. "It was unbelievable! Every-one was going crazy. It was a great feeling, especially to get our first win of the season," said junior Quarterback Joel Bolen.

After beating the Brickies, Kougars were ready to pull out their second win on Homecoming night. "I was really nervous, but I believed we could beat them. The team we had went all out with heart and determination," commented freshman Johnny Williams. They beat the Blue Jays in double overtime 33-27. "We obviously had only one thing on our minds, a big win, which is what we got with that amazing performance from our star quarterback Joel Bolen," said junior Tyler Birky.

"Without the team, victories wouldn't be a possibility."

Starting off the season with the title of NCC Champions, girls XC team showed their stuff. "Winning Conference was a great experience for me, but I have to give all the credit to my teammates. Winning is a team effort, and without them, victories wouldn't be a possibility," said junior Rachel Krupa. With the boys following up on the success, they were announced Sectional Champs. "Winning Sectionals was a great feeling. It really put a cap on a great four years with the team," said senior Justin Wicker.

A team made up of mostly underclassmen, with one junior, the girls team came out on top finishing the season with a 73-40 record. Allison Rockley (10), finished in 4th place, taking the lead in Sectionals with Kaylin Orsburn (10), Brittany Stepp (10), and Michelle Kent (9) following behind to finish in the top ten in the Sectional meet, but falling short one spot on winning Sectionals, finishing in Second place. Girls' cross country team qualified for Regionals and Semi-State by one point.

With an overall record of 66-61, the boys XC team was able to come out with a Sectional victory. Sophomore Travis Conley, junior Brandon Hazlett, and senior Trevor Overstreet received individual Regional qualifying bids.

Long term injuries caused players to miss weeks during their season. Junior Andrew Ribicki was out with a leg injury. "I decided to stay and support the team because I love the game," said Ribicki. Senior Nikolas Zoppetti was benched for six games due to a nasal cavity injury.

With only two minutes left in the game against Lowell Red Devils, Varsity boys won their last regular home game 6-4. "I will never forget the time when we scored the fifth goal to get us ahead of Lowell on Senior Night. At that moment, I knew we were going to win our last game!" exclaimed senior Jacob Allen.

The only position senior Samuel Cowsert played the entire season is the Varsity Goal Keeper. As the keeper, he had two yellow cards. "The most difficult part of being the goal keeper was the communication I had with my fellow teammates," said Cowsert. Photo by N. Ketchum

JV player, sophomore Jordan Likens started as a forward and was put back to defense. "My coaches, teammates, and managers, including my sister Bianca, is what made my season worthwhile, but it was also difficult, fun, and challenging. # Making History One Kick at a Time

From winning conference to team bonding, the girls soccer team was inseparable. They helped and encouraged each other through the ups and downs. "This was the first year I played soccer for the school. It felt like a family from the moment I started," said sophomore Morgan Campbell.

Practicing hard three-hour practices over the summer and every day they did not have a game paid off when they won conference 6-0. Also, Hannah Wilder made the outstanding accomplishment of scoring 63 total points in one season.

Dayton Dellahan and Alyssa Vanderwall were the only two seniors the team celebrated on Senior Night. "The best part of last season of soccer was going undefeated in conference and making many new friends along the way," said senior Vanderwall. Dellahan commented in, "The thing I'm going to miss most is how close we all were. We were such a close family and I don't think that I will ever find that in another team again."

We be killin' em.

Blood sweat and tears was what the volleyball season consisted of this year. The girls started off the season early, beginning with kids camps, but also helping the team get back into the groove of thing.

Having numerous girls try out for the season, coaches were able to offer all three teams. "It was nice having set teams. I felt like there was a lot less stress among the three teams," commented sophomore Madison DeYoung.

Leading the varsity team, seniors Hailey Ruesken, Tori Van Vuren, and Camille Webster came up with the idea to have a dig pink game. The dig pink game supported breast cancer awareness week. All of the players, coaches, and fans got into the spirit and wore pink for the game.

"The season was very interesting but also very fun. I really enjoyed playing and had a great senior year," said Hailey Ruesken.

Kougars smashed Calumet in three games which put them through to the next round of sectionals. They went on to loose a great game against the senior dominated Andrean 59ers. "The whole team played an awesome game, and I am so proud of them. I just wish we could have came home with the trophy," exclaimed senior Camille Webster.

K-o-u-g-a-r-s, Kougars, cheerleaders chanted in practice and on the sideline in order to support their football team.

In June, cheerleaders went to a four day camp at Saint Mary's of Notre Dame where they won the spirit stick, and freshman Belanah Chavez made the All-American team. "Summer camp was extremely exhausting and unbelievably stressful, but it was also worth every minute once you stick that stunt or get the cheer perfectly," explained junior Andrea Wireman.

"It felt good to be able to contribute to our school with creativity," said freshman Mia Forden. Cheerleaders rolled out the red carpet when they hosted the Hollywood themed Homecoming Dance.

Hit Us With Your Best Shot

Boys' tennis was filled with dedication, perseverance, commitment, effort, and improvement as they experienced a tougher season in the Northwest Crossroads Conference which included Valparasio, Plymouth, and Benton Central. "I feel like our overall season went really great. We all improved and had a lot of fun playing as a team," said junior Ryan Postma.

Although participating in the Lebanon

Tournament was difficult, the team gained experience with players who were outside their Conference. Coach Dan Roberts chose Lebanon, his alma mater, in order to challenge his players. "I wanted my team to play against tougher competitors so that they could improve on their skills," said Roberts.

One player who contributed to the 500 season was sophomore Luke Sanderson whose flawless regular season earned him First Team All-NCC Singles honors.

Sanderson won Sectionals and finished eighth in state. Sanderson has now compiled a 25-0 record and is 46-1 in his two seasons of playing for the Kougars. He was named the number one player in District 1 by coaches in Northwest Indiana.

"Luke had some great competition and will continue to play tournaments year round. This is what it takes to play at an elite level," added Coach Roberts.

Take it to the Hoop!

Led by senior Brett Walther, Kougars strived to make the best out of their season. "Our team was very young. Four of our starters were juniors, with me being the only senior. I had to show leadership and determination to help our team to victory," commented Walther.

Kougars stayed strong throughout the season and got their first win against North Newton. "Beating the Spartans was a good way to build the teams' confidence and to prove to ourselves that we could have a positive year," said junior Dustin Ketelaar.

After beating North Newton, the boys faced a stretch of very good teams including Valparaiso, Munster, Michigan City, and Lowell. Fighting through tough competition, they retaliated by defeating the Portage Indians in a hard fought game with a final score of 47-42.

Advancing into the first round of Sectionals with a 5-16 record, the boys were ready to take on the Knox Redskins. Losing with a score of 54-37, their season came to an end. "It was a rough way to end the season," commented junior Tyler Birky.

Respect All, Fear None

Starting off the season beating Valparaiso 53-52 as the underdog gave the girls a confidence boost for the rest of the season. This is only the second time Lady Kougars beat Valparaiso, the last being in the 1980's at home. "Winning against one of the top teams on their home turf really got the girls excited for the season," said Head Coach Ryan Myers.

"I Hate to Lose More Than I Want to Win"

-Joel Bolen, 11

Starting off as a very young team and missing a key wrestler, sophomore Alex Berdine, due to knee surgery, wrestlers still dominated rival Rensselaer in their first home meet. "Much of the team had never wrestled before so to beat such a well known wrestling school was a great accomplishment," said sophomore Michael Mikovetz.

Topping the charts by placing second and third in Sectionals were juniors James Marich and Matthew Berdine. Also joining them was senior Kyle Dalka who placed second. Juniors Joel Bolen and John Morrison also advanced to Regionals with second and fourth place finishes. "Making it to Regionals was one of my biggest goals, I am happy with how my season ended, but I am definitely going to train even harder," Morrison added.

Wrestlers continued to perform in Regionals. Marich, Berdine and Dalka fought through their first match and advanced to Semi-State in Merrillville. "Making it to Semi-State in my first year of wrestling was awesome. I never thought I would do so well as a rookie," commented Berdine.

Wrestlers finished with a record of 25-12. Meets against Delphi, Valparaiso, and Cherterton all went to the last match to decide the winner.

Cheer Loud, Cheer Proud!

When you hear the word "cheerleader", what are the descriptions that come to mind? Glitz, glam, and—most importantly—spirit!

Three seniors, Taylor Freckelton, Tasha Jones, and Jessica Nichols, received the rare opportunity to cheer in Orlando, Florida for the NCA Christmas Extravaganza Parade. "Having the experience to go perform at Disney was one of the greatest moments in my life!" exclaimed Tasha Jones.

had to do some major fundraising. In the summer they sold popcorn buckets, and during the week of Valentines Day they sold candy grams to help with the cost.

For Basketball Sectionals, girls and lifters decorated the boys' rooms with streamers, confetti, and posters. "Spending time with the other cheerleaders and seeing the parents' reactions are the best parts of decorating the boys' rooms for Sectionals," said junior Mackenzie Misner.

After only one season of cheering, junior Miranda Retzlaff was moved up to Varsity. "Cheerleading has been the best part of high school by far. I love how much all of our hard work pays off when we get to perform in front of the whole school. It's very rewarding, and I am so glad that I participated in cheer," said Retzlaff. Photo by A. Winning the dance battle against Griffith's mascot was the Kougars' greatest accomplishment. "Being the Kougars was one of the high lights of my high school career. The Rensselaer game was very interesting because out of nowhere Gumbee came over and tried to start a fight. Kougars always dominate!" exclaimed The Kougars. Photo by M. Brown

On the Go in H<sub>2</sub>O

Swimmers began the season with a strong group of seniors who dominated Conference rival, Griffith, by 46 points in the fourth outing.

At the Rensselaer Relays, Kougars swam to perfection. First place finishes were junior Frank Lapota in the breast stroke and senior Zachary Ratliff in the butterfly. Kougars were the champions of the relays for the first time. "Winning the Rensselaer Relays my senior season was an amazing feeling. It was even better because it was the first time," explained Ratliff.

Racing opponents such as Merrillville and Knox, the team went into the Lowell Invitational with confidence, as the defending champions. They won the Invitational by two points over Knox. The Invite consisted of Knox, Bishop Noll, Lowell, Griffith, Gavit, and Hammond Morton. "Lowell Invitational is always a great time. To win my junior year and then come back the next year and win again is an awesome feeling to have," said senior Cody Jones.

Going into Conference, Ratliff and Lapota were determined to break the 100 M butterfly and 100 M breast school records. "Breaking the school record was an amazing feeling, and to do it at Conference just made the moment even more memorable," commented Lapota.

Kougars finished the season strong with wins over Twin Lakes and Morton, ending the season with an 11-3 record.

The Earth is 71.1% water. Can you swim?

Completing the season with an 8-4 record and fourth in the Conference, the Girls' Swim team came through with two Conference wins and a rival win against Rensselaer.

"I feel very accomplished from my first swimming season. I started the season off barely knowing how to swim, and I improved greatly," said sophomore Joli Jungles.

With hard work and practice, sophomore Madison Babicka pushed through to break a record in the 50 meter freestyle with a time of 25:50. This time had been held by 2011 graduate Breanne Chevette who completed the swim in 25:76. Babicka also received Second Team All-Conference for her outstanding swim time. Babicka and her relay team that consisted of junior Alysia Beenes and sophomores Abbey Sittima and Katelin Lott also placed Second Team all Conference.

Given a challenge at the beginning of the season, the team came through with a three victory win streak against Merrillville, Knox, and Bishop Noll. "We saw major improvements in individual times throughout the season," commented Head Coach Kevin Stephens.

In final action, Lady Kougars placed sixth out of 16 teams in the Crown Point Sectionals. "Going to Crown Point is always really cool because the excitement makes everyone swim faster and be more enthusiastic about the race. It's really great to watch excellent swimmers go to State," commented senior Lindsey Marie Strong.

Diamond Life is the Right Stuff

Starting off the season with a strong group of seniors, Kougars dominated Calumet in their first game. Next was county rival Rensselaer. In a hard fought game the boys came out on the losing end. "Losing against Rensselaer my senior year was very disappointing, but I was happy with our effort," said senior Christopher Rusk.

In the Kougar Klassic the boys really stepped up their game with wins over Knox and North Newton to take home the trophy. "Winning the Kougar Klassic was very exciting. It is something that I will always remember," said senior Kevin Cooper.

Moving into Sectionals Kougars were determined to make it to the championship game. With wins over Knox and Hanover Central that is exactly what they did. Although losing to Andean in the Sectional Championship, their season ended with a 17-14 record.

When in Doubt, Pinky Out

Walking into the season with heads held high as defending Conference Champs, softball team began their first week of games 4-1. "Starting off the season right after Spring Break was a disadvantage; having no team practices while going into our first games facing two Conference opponents was tough, but we fought through," stated Coach Brian Flynn.

Going into game six on Andrean's home turf fired up the team for a rival game. It was a pitching battle between seniors Ashley Dobson and Andrean pitcher Nicole Steinbach. "Playing Andrean always gets me pumped up because I always know it will be a close game," said Dobson. Playing the second game against Andrean at home, Lady Kougars represented former players by wearing 20 year old jerseys for the first ever "Throwback Game".

Unlike last year, Ladies went into Sectionals as the "Darkhorse" for another face-off against Andrean for the win. "I felt confident that we could kill it in Sectionals! We played several good teams to prepare for the tournament. I'm ready to finally beat Andrean for the title," said junior Maribeth Strong.

For the second year in a row, the Lady Kougars sent another All-Star to Indianapolis to play in the North/South All-Star game. Ashley Dobson received this prestigious award on behalf of her outstanding pitching and her clutch hitting, earning the name of "First Team All-State". Also, Alyssa Matson earned the undercalssman award as "All District".

It's All in the Hips

Being on the golf team wasn't all strokes and putts, nor was it a one person game. It's a great example of a team sport, because every member has to be focused to maintain the minimum amount of over-all strokes to win.

Both teams led a fierce season. "It was a rather challenging and hard season at first, but as time passed, it appeared that it was becoming less challenging for me. I loved the experience and was happy about my improvement," said freshman Joshua Whitaker.

15-Love Nets Victory

Starting off the season with their third new coach in three years, players were a little shaky. Two returning seniors, Abbey Hamstra and Jennifer Anderson, were assigned the responsibility of Captains.

With only four returning varsity players, it was a fight for the next three Varsity spots, which were won by Maranda Brown, Amanda DeRolf, and Paige Sanders.

Although spring brought harsh weather from rain to scorching heat, players pushed through it. "I hated when it rained because that meant we had to practice inside or our game was canceled," said sophomore Ariel Garcia.

Girls ended their tough conference competition 3-3 under the direction of Coach Kelli Hamstra.

After winning Sectionals, senior Abbey Hamstra advanced to Regionals where she defeated Marquette's Kendall Shinn. In her first state birth, Hamstra made it to the quarter finals where she lost to an undefeated freshman. "It was back and forth the whole match. I felt that I played well, I just came out on the short end this time, but I am happy with the way I played today," added Hamstra.

"My past experiences with track helped me keep my cool in meets instead of worrying so much. My biggest accomplishment was everything I've learned in the three years I've done track," said senior Casey Wilson. Wilson advanced to Regionals for the third year in a row. Photo by T. Sparks

"I like running hurdles because they are challenging. Running as fast as I can with an obstacle in the way is not the easiest," said sophomore Derick Tesh. Tesh went to Regionals as a sophomore in the 110 meter hurdles, 300 meter hurdles, and high jump. Photo by S. Hurst

"It's been a fun four years. Breaking the pole vault record was the highlight of my junior year, while also getting second at Sectionals that same year," said senior Trevor Overstreet. Overstreet placed third for pole vault at Sectionals and advanced to Regionals. Photo by S. Hurst

"The best part of track was making new friends and having a lot of fun while getting better," said junior Mark Lukacek. Lukacek placed in Sectionals and advanced to Regionals for a second time. His personal record in long jump, accomplished during Regionals, was 20' 2". Photo by T. Sparks

Baby Got Track!

Starting the season off with a strong returning group of underclassmen, Lady Kougars continued to show dominance in the Conference. At the NCC meet, senior Dayton Dellahan, sophomores Gabrielle Martin, Leanna Mulloy, and freshman Kara Gouwens shattered the 1600 relay record with a 4:05.7. "Winning at Conference is always a great feeling, but to break the school record in the process made the night even more memorable," said Martin.

Sophomore Leanna Mulloy also lived up to her expectations, by breaking the 100 and 200 Meter dash records with times of 12:45 and 16:53 at the NCC.

Determined to win Sectionals, the girls dominated their opponents with wins in the 100, 200, 400, 4x8, 4x4, and 4x1 to advance to Regionals.

In a spectacular night at Chesterton Regionals, Mulloy advanced to the State Finals in the 100 and 200 meter dashes. Also advancing to state was the 1600 relay team.

State INFO

Lady Kougars finished the season with a 10-1 record. Team was coached by Mr. Lane Lewallen.

2. Dayton Dellahan, 12
3. Audra Lewis, 10
4. Angela DeFries, 12

Sophomore Joli Jungels strives to beat her long jump personal record of 16'5". "Long jump is exciting, but also challenging. The form and take off are the key to being successful," added Jungels. Photo by S. Hurst

Picking up speed in the 400 meter dash, freshman Kara Gouwens placed 2nd. "The 400 is a very exciting race and is usually close all the way to the finish line," said Gouwens. Photo by S. Hurst

Four seniors make for a short, but meaningful night for Laura Stoermann, Angela DeFries, Dayton Dellahan, and Breeanne Babe, who are pictured with their parents. "Running track was something that I will never forget. All the seniors were like family, and I loved knowing they were always going to be there for me," said Stoermann. Photo by S. Hurst

Sprinting to the finish line in the 100 meter dash, sophomore Leanna Mulloy places first. Her best time all season was 12 seconds flat. "Sprints always give me a huge adrenaline rush. Running as fast as you possibly can all the way to the finish line is very challenging, but always exciting," said Mulloy. Photo by S. Hurst

Sophomore Hannah Klomp hurdled for Varsity two years in a row. "Hurdling, in my eyes, is the hardest event in track. As if running full speed and jumping isn't enough, the form is also a challenge to master," said Klomp. Photo by S. Hurst

Even though distance races were sophomore Brittany Stepp's main events, she could also be used as a dual threat in the relay races. "Running the relay races is exciting. I really enjoy the fact that team work is the biggest factor in winning the race," commented Stepp. Photo by S. Hurst

Breeanne Babe topped the charts with a personal record of 9'6" for her senior track season. "Beating my previous personal record my senior year was an amazing feeling. It felt as if all of my hard work had finally paid off," said Babe. Photo by T. Sparks

With a personal record of 12:49.5 in the 3200 meter run, freshman Michelle Kent dominated her opponents. "Running the two mile is not an easy task to do. It takes a lot of preparation and hard work to become a good competitor in this event, especially in our conference," commented Kent. Photo by S. Hurst

Sweet Towers of Confection Offer Night of Perfection

Sequined gowns, tuxedos, perfect nails, hair and makeup, and pictures captured the moments of "The Sweetest Night" on May 5 at the Valparaiso Expo Center. "I will always remember going to my last Prom with Ron Gatlin because he was so much fun! I am going to miss getting ready and dancing for the final time," said senior Felicia Sytsma.

For over 400 teens, the moment of perfection began with Hershey bars and lollipops that were received as reminders of the night to come.

Perfection continued for four students when 8:30 came along and seniors Maxwell Klingaman and Dayton Dellahan took the floor as King and Queen and juniors Tyler Birky and Rylie Hoffman swung into each others arms as Prince and Princess.

Fist pumping, break dancing and line dancing continued throughout the night as soon as "Shake it For me" and "Starships" played over the speakers.

Tables were decked out with blinking colored glasses filled with Skittles, candy necklaces and little paper umbrellas. Favors included key chains and glasses.

"It was an amazing experience to be able to share with my friends. I met a lot of new people who made my night even better! It was fun to let loose and have a good time. Prom was definitely a night to remember!" exclaimed sophomore Andrew Jackson.

Dancing to the Cha-Cha slide, junior Alysia Beenes, sophomore Brandon Agonis, senior Travis Irvine, and sophomore Kaitlyn Kearney slide to the right in rhythm to the song. "I will always remember the great times with my friends. I enjoyed dancing with all of them, including my sister Kala! I look forward to attending next year with all of them again!" exclaimed Beenes.

While taking a break, juniors Tyler Black and Michael Smith grab some sweets after a long night of dancing. There was a table full of sweets that consisted of 1,200 mini cupcakes and cookies from Strombos. "Dancing was the most fun by far. The sweets were good. I would have rather had actual food than candy at Prom. The skittles were awesome too, although they got all over people's feet and shoes," said Smith.

"I loved dancing with all of my closest friends all night long and singing "Tonight, tonight," with them for the final time," said senior Jennifer Anderson.

Far Left: Prom King Maxwell Klingaman, Queen Dayton Delahlan, Princess Rylie Hoffman, Prince Tyler Birky share a dance as the winners of the night. "Winning Prom Princess was an honor, but it was even more bittersweet since I won with one of my best friend's boyfriends!" exclaimed Hoffman.

Snacks, games and laughter made staying up until 3a.m. fun for the 150 students who attended Post Prom.

SADD sponsored the event held at Inman's where students enjoyed pizza, desserts, bowling, go karts, billiards, and arcade games. "Post Prom was so much fun because everything was already paid for," said junior Brady Powers.

When students walked in, they were drawn to the bowling lanes and the tables filled with cookies, cupcakes, cheese trays, and pizzas. "Bowling was so much fun. I was so surprised when Desie, who struggled the whole time, actually won our game," said junior Emily Myers.

At 2:40 the door prizes were announced. Senior Adelaide Cobb and junior Andrea Wireman each won a $100 Family Express Gas Card. Nook tablet went to senior Steven Scally, and Taryn McDaniel took home a Kindle Fire. An 8Gb iPod Touch was given to senior William Sutton. Lastly, after eyeing it for weeks, senior Patience Richie won the 32" flat screen TV. "I was so amazed and surprised about winning the TV. I never win anything. So, it was a huge shock!" exclaimed Richie.

Neon orange T-shirts, part of the $20 Post Prom ticket, lit up the warm May 6 morning as SADD adviser, Mrs. Sue Kwitkowski, bid teens a safe trip home.

Running from their opponents, seniors Sean Kelley and Kathryn Maki prepare for their next move in their water fight. "Sean, Ashley, Jordyn, and I combined all of our tickets from the arcade games to purchase water guns for all four of us because they looked really fun. The best part was squirting random people. We got into a hilarious squirt gun fight with Ms. Howard!," exclaimed Maki. Photo by A. Cobb

Buckled up and ready to go, seniors Austin Neeley, Breanne Babe, juniors Andrea Wireman, Dillon Kerns, seniors Matthew Clark, and Lucas Grube wait for the signal to begin the race. "I lost the first round because my go kart died, but in the second round I beat all four guys that I was racing!" exclaimed Wireman. Photo by A. Cobb

Wiebke Luhrs, 11

Kroll takes her first shot. "The best part of playing mini golf was watching David and John chase each other with golf clubs. It was pretty funny," giggled Kroll. Photo by A. Cobb

Watching their opponents take their turn, juniors Jacob Smith, Eric Hoffman, Dillon Kerns, and Jacan Geeve wait for their chance to win their game of corn hole, one of the many activities outside of the bowling alley. "My favorite parts of Post Prom were the go karts and mini golf. I had a really great time being able to relax and have fun with my friends," said Hoffman. Photo by A. Cobb Juniors Kaylyn Banaszak and Lindsey Fenstermaker attempt to make par in their game of mini golf. "I am absolutely horrible at mini golf.

I never seem to actually get any decent scores, but my friends made me play anyway!" exclaimed Banaszak. Photo by A. Cobb

"The future belongs to those who believe in the beauty of their dreams." —Eleanor Roosevelt

Class of 2012, We'll be Just Fine

On June 10 at 2pm, 198 graduates entered the gymnasium for the final time as the Class of 2012. After a warm welcome by Principal Keeman Lobsiger, graduates listened closely as Salutatorian Abbey Hamstra honored parents and friends in her speech.

Stepping up to the podium Valedictorian Stephen Mezzacapo asked the audience to raise their right hand and then place the hand on the shoulder to their right. "Now, I can say that my speech touched the audience," he said.

After a collective laugh, Mezzacapo announced that many speeches had two items: a one word theme and recognition of the few students who wanted to be lawyers, doctors, and CEO's. Even though Mezzacapo's theme was "cliche", he made a point of not making his speech be full of them.

Mezzacapo pointed out the various career paths of specific individuals who looked beyond doctors, lawyers, and CEO's. He called out those who wanted to go into the work force, the military, and medicine, giving an accurate portrayal of the Class of 2012 and its diversity.

President Tyler Steinke ended his speech with thanks to teachers and the community.

Band performed "Legend of the Sword," and the choir brought tears with their performance of "Things That Never Die."

After handing out diplomas, Principal Keeman Lobsiger announced the class of 2012 graduated.

Clad in numerous awards, Kimberly Peterson proudly descends from the podium to receive her class flower. "It was such a memorable day, and the last time that I would be with my class as a whole. It was a little bit sad, but I can't wait to see where we all end up, and I wish everyone the best. I'm going to miss parts of high school, but I'm ready for a new chapter in my life," said the excited Peterson. Photo by D. Smundin

With a new and improved system, 21 Super Seniors were recognized for their superb accomplishments during their high school career. With the help of a board consisting of seniors Steven Scally and David Phillips, the new criteria was set at the beginning of first semester. Super Seniors must: maintain a minimum 2.0 GPA, have no record of cheating, have no expulsion/suspension records, maintain a minimum 95% attendance rate, follow all school rules and policies, have no violation of Indiana state laws or policies, participate in volunteer/community service, be involved in one or more leadership positions, be active in a minimum of two extra curricular activities, have a reference from a KVHS teacher.

At awards night, these 21 students received medallions and certificates of honor. The group also attended a luncheon with Mr. Keeman Lobsiger on May 22 at Marcellas.

Final Good-Byes For Yearbook Seniors

"As we all part, all I have to say is thank you to all the 'yerd's'. Yearbook has taught me to deal with hectic times, deadlines, and unwanted stress. It's been a long and wonderful journey that has impacted my life greatly for the last four years. I would not change any of the drama, laughs, or tears for anything. For the last four years, these people, the 'Pride' staff, became the family that I didn't know would exist in high school. To Mrs. McKinney, we had our ups and downs, but no matter what I always looked up to you, and I am glad you have always been here for me. I'm not saying good-bye, but a simple 'see you later'. Thank you everyone for everything!" exclaimed Bianca Likens.

"I am not one for good-byes, but I am good at expressing my emotions. I have laughed. I have grown to understand how hard it truly is. There are things I will never forget, even if I really want to. Even though I was only here for two years I cannot remember a time when I was not with my yearbook family. So I guess I have to do what I am avoiding and say good-bye. I may be a thousand miles away, but I will always hold you guys close to my heart, and you will never be forgotten," said Adelaide Cobb.

"Saying good-bye to anybody is hard enough, but when it's saying good-bye to your yearbook, it's that much harder. In my last three years, yearbook has brought me more stress and joy than anything else. It has taught me to work hard and pay attention to the little things in life. Mrs. McKinney has taught me so much. I don't know what I'm going to do next year without her and my fellow yerd's. We have grown so close, we really are a family. We have all laughed together and cried together. From locking people in hotel bathrooms, to freaking out over spreads, yearbook is an experience that I wouldn't trade for anything in the world. I love all of you and will miss you yerd's more than you even know," said Caitlin Abel.

"In my four years in yearbook, I've learned so much about leadership, responsibility, and hard work. To be honest, this class has helped shape me. I wouldn't be the person I am today without Mrs. McKinney, Bianca, and my fellow yerd's. This is not only a class to me, it's a family, and the back room feels like home. There were horrible moments, but underneath all of those, there were great moments. There is no better feeling than seeing your name on a spread in a published book, or being awarded for all the hard work and dedication we put into that book," explained Kimberly Peterson.

Colophon

Kougar Pride Volume 41b was produced by the yearbook class at Kankakee Valley High School in Wheatfield, IN with adviser Kathy McKinney and Co-Editors Kimberly Peterson and Bianca Likens completing the leadership team. Due to a numbering error of over 30 years ago, the previous books were out of sequence. Thus, this book was named Volume 41b after the previous years Volume 41.

Pride was printed by Herff Jones in Edwardsville, Kansas and serviced by In-plant Lisa Merino and local representatives Rod and Julie Glenn.

The cover was designed by Kimberly Peterson, and was a representation of the theme and the school through a tree with branches and descriptive words.

Endsheets, designed by Caitlin Abel, portrayed a timeline along with leaves and branches to represent the theme and the school year.

Pride's 200 pages were printed in full four color on 100 pound bordeaux special gloss paper. All body copy was set in 11pt CartoGothic Book type font. Captions were in 9pt, set in CartoGothic Light type font. Headline font size varied, but was set in Della Robia type font. Pride was desk top published using Adobe InDesign CS2 on six OPI-PLEX GX 520 DELL computers.

Thousands of pictures were taken with three Canon Rebel XTi digital cameras. Senior pictures were taken by Spark Shot Studios, and Underclass Photos were provided by Interstate Studios.

At publication, about 425 yearbooks had been sold at a cost of $55-65, depending on the date of purchase.

Kougar Pride Staff is a member of JEA, NSPA, Q&S, and IHSPA. Pride Staff was awarded an "Excellent Overall Yearbook AA Staff" at Ball State Jerd Day.

This book has been produced by high school journalism students. In spite of numerous proof reading by the students, the editors, the adviser, and the administration, any errors that may have occurred are absolutely unintentional.

Branch Out For new Beginnings

As the year came to an end, as finals were taken and lockers were cleaned, the class of 2012 said goodbye to a school that had been a part of them for years. Meanwhile, freshmen were only newly adjusted and juniors were now counting down the days until they would slip on their own red gowns.

During the last three days of school, finals were given in various forms. Mr. Adams' AP English students created a logic puzzle, a limerick, and a rant for their final, while Mr. Lovely's French students were required to translate and write a paragraph in French.

Band was awarded with the Indiana State School Music Association

tion All-Music Award. This was achieved through their gold performances in Marching Band, Concert Band, and Jazz Band, as well as having a soloist and an ensemble make it to State competition.

Girls' Sports teams finished second in the All-Sports Conference standings. Track members sophomore Leanna Mulloy, freshman Kara Gouwens, sophomore Gabrielle Martin, and senior Dayton Dellahan all advanced to State. Senior Zachary DeFries tied a Baseball State record for triples when he scored his 12th.

With the above achievements and the title of a four star school to show for it, both the school year and the Class of 2012 went out with a bang.

Congratulating the Softball Captains, Assistant Athletic Director Mr. John Gray hugs seniors Ashley Stahl and Ashley Dobson after their Sectional loss. The team played a hard defense game, only losing by one home run against State Champions Andreen.

Sophomore Grace Hudleston is absorbed in her book (acting as Belle from Beauty and the Beast) as the others sing about how odd she is. For their final, Theater Arts II performed a music video to a variety of Disney songs from five movies that told the story of new found love through the Disney princesses set in more recent times.
